

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Josh Ard: A diachronic study of lexical rules	1
Mark Aronoff: Lexical representations	12
Leonard H. Babby: Lexical functions and syntactic constructions: Russian existential sentences	26
Eve V. Clark: Discovering what words can do	34
Kathleen Dahlgren: The nature of linguistic stereotypes	58
J. Peter Denny: Locating the universals in lexical systems for spatial deixis	71
Sandra Derrig: Metaphor in the color lexicon	85
David R. Dowty: Applying Montague's views on linguistic metatheory to the structure of the lexicon	97
Elisabet Engdahl: Word stress as an organizing principle for the lexicon	138
Charles J. Fillmore: On the organization of semantic information in the lexicon	148
Gene B. Gragg: Redundancy and polysemy: reflections on a point of departure for lexicology	174
Eric P. Hamp: Sound change and the etymological lexicon	184
Laurence R. Horn: Lexical incorporation, implicature, and the least effort hypothesis	196
Grover Hudson: Lexical form of the Amharic reflexive-passive	210
William Labov: Denotational structure	220
James D. McCawley: Logic and the lexicon	261
Salikoko S. Mufwene: English manner-of-speaking verbs revisited	278
William Nagy: Some non-idiom larger-than-word units in the lexicon	289
Geoffrey Nunberg: Slang, usage-conditions, and l'arbitraire du signe	301
Victor Raskin: On some peculiarities of the Russian lexicon	312
Linda J. Schwartz: On the island status of lexical items	326
Pieter A. M. Seuren: The structure and selection of positive and negative gradable adjectives	336
Sharon Henderson Taylor: On the acquisition and completion of lexical entries	347
Thomas E. Toon: Lexical diffusion in Old English	357